Management Seminar Planned

An advanced seminar for women in management will be offered from February 9 through April 25, 1975.

Designed for the woman executive "on the way up", the course is limited to 25, each to be sponsored by her organization. Participants must have five to ten years business or government experience, and will be drawn from a diversified background.

Curriculum topics are More Effective Communications, Marketing Management, Managerial Finance, The Middle Manager: Issues and Problems, Management by Objectives, The Modern Art of Executive Leadership, Dynamics of Organization Theory, and The Economics of Business, Government and Society. Featured speaker will be Ms. Mary Brooks, Director of the Bureau of the Mint.

Faculty will be drawn from the following universities: Mississippi State, Virginia Commonwealth, Georgia State, Kentucky, and South Alabama; and also will include Ms. Joan Crawford, Directive Manager, Lord and Taylor Co., and John J. Moriarty, Keefe Management Services, Inc.

An all-inclusive fee of $875 covers room, board, instructions and teaching materials. Applications will be accepted until January 1. Write or call Dean Oscar C. Page, Wesleyan College, who with Dr. Walter Neely, is heading the program.

Don Carter Speaks

Don Carter, executive editor of The Macon Telegraph, was guest speaker at the History-Government Club November 14. He discussed his recent trip to the Soviet Union and showed slides.

Impressed by "the fine young women Wesleyan is educating for us" he devoted his column on the editorial page the following Sunday to a delineation of Wesleyan's progress and the quality of her students. His title was "An Education with Quality."

Master of Education Degree to be Given

A Master of Education degree in early childhood education will be given at Wesleyan, with the program open to men and women in the fall of 1975.

The recommendation of the degree by the faculty was unanimously approved by the Board of Trustees at its October meeting. This was the second time establishment of a graduate program has been approved at the College. The previous Master of Music degree was discontinued in the early '60's.

MARGARET AND DAD

On a cold December day Wesleyan's president, Dr. W. Earl Strickland, dons a fur hat to show his daughter, a senior, the Candler Alumnae Center.

Dr. Manget Honored

Dr. Fred Manget, beloved friend of Wesleyan and husband of alumna Jennie Loyall, received in October the Dr. John Tyler Mauldin Award given by the Georgia Gerontology Society to the person making the greatest contribution to the aged during the year. At 95 Dr. Manget is the oldest volunteer for the Bibb County Department of Family and Children Services. He "retired" 20 years ago after 41 years as a medical missionary to China and Korea.

Wins First Prize

The photographic montage of the Wesleyan Glee Club with Dr. Sylvia Ross conducting, by George W. McKinney, Associate Professor of Theatre, won first prize in the Experimental Photography Division of the Georgia State Fair in October. This work was used as the cover of the WESLEYAN COLLEGE NOW magazine, February, 1974, and in Glee Club publicity. Mr. McKinney's photo of the campus, "Midnight Mist", cover of the College date book, captured first prize in the Scenery Division.

Seminar in England

Dr. Charles D. Foust, professor of education, led a group of 27 local teachers and education students to western Europe last summer to study the British Infants School and related programs. He will head a seminar in England workshop/study tour on informal education and open classrooms June 19-July 10, plus Paris, Rome, and Madrid.

Faculty Makes News

Ray Harris, music faculty, performed an organ recital for the Columbia, S.C. chapter, American Guild of Organists, November 15.

Anthony Rice, art faculty, showed two paintings at the annual exhibition of the El Paso (Texas) Museum of Art.

January Term Provides Interest

The January Term at Wesleyan, which provides educational opportunities not normally existing during the regular academic terms, opens Monday, January 6. Speakers, panelists, films, and performers will deal with the theme of INDIVIDUALS brought together in COMMUNITY and interacting with the WORLD, according to Dr. Harry Gilmer, Associate Dean coordinating the project.

During the month students may select one of the project courses, (one credit), may elect an independent or field study under guidance of a professor, may choose a foreign study-travel program, may attend another 4-1-4 (semester months) college.

Also, interest courses are offered for no credit and at no charge.

Highlights of the science offerings are two expeditions, a five-day cruise in the Galapagos Islands aboard a chartered yacht to study flora and fauna, environmental factors, land bridges, etc. of this area in the Pacific Ocean 600 miles west of Ecuador; and a three-week experience in the Rocky Mountains of Colorado for instruction in winter sports.

Credit courses include Contemporary Black African Literature, Twentieth Century Spanish Drama, the Individual and Society in the New Testament, American Political Leadership, Woman-Beneficiary or Victim of Social Change, and others. Practicum in Early Childhood Education will be given under supervision.

Nine Fine Arts courses are listed, music, art, and drama, also Jewelry Making and Quilt making.

A dozen interest courses range from trampoline to yoga, from photography to pocket billiards, from chess (taught by President Strickland) to a sex seminar.

A gala evening is promised on the 15th with a dinner-theatre presentation of "The World of Carl Sandburg" by the American Repertory Theatre. Films will be shown on the 16th, 24th, and 27th, with speakers on the 22nd and 23rd. Howard Hanger Trio plays on the 9th.

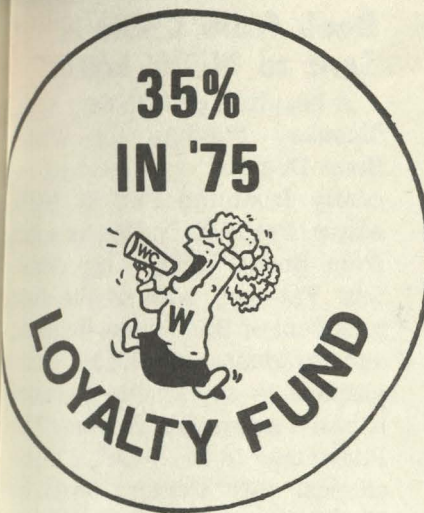

Dr. Gilmer will furnish a schedule of events on request.

ORCHIDS TO WESLEYAN

Mrs. Tadao Yoshida, wife of the president of YKK Industries of Japan and Macon, Ga., presented one of her own flower paintings to Dr. Strickland when she was a guest at the College this fall. Interpreting is Yoko Kawarabayashi, senior from Yokohama, major in American studies.

Don't Forget . . .

Don't forget the Loyalty Fund...want to be a member of the 1974 Challenge Group? A member of the 1836 Club (by giving $100)? Over 40 have already joined!

Don't forget to send names of prospective students to President Strickland or to Burton Fite, Admissions Director.

Don't forget to mark your calendar for Alumnae Weekend, April 18-19, 1975. We'll celebrate "Dr. Gin's" 80th BD. Silver Class is '50, Gold is '25, and Jade is '40. Everybody come—and invite a friend, including your husband.

Alumnae Clubs Busy

Newest alumnae group, Atlanta area girls of the 70's, with Susan Woodward Walker as chairman, are among the clubs hosting prospective student parties. Clubs have been busy—Jacksonville compiled a cookbook, Atlanta sponsored a Needlecraft Fair to benefit their scholarship fund, Columbus held a Bake Sale, and Macon increased its endowed scholarship fund through a Holiday Fashion Brunch in the Anderson Dining Room December 7.

Goes to Arkansas

Dr. Robert L. Qualls, vice president and director of special services, has been named president of the College of the Ozarks at Clarkesville, Arkansas.

Music Workshops and Recitals Scheduled

A series of workshops by outstanding artists and master teachers is being given for students of the music department, made possible by a gift from Mrs. McKibben Lane.

Fall workshops featured pianists Virginia Hutchings, Claude Frank, Garrick Ohlsson, and Martin Katz, coach accompanist.

Others in the series, after the first of the year, will include Anna Kaskas, former leading contralto of the Metropolitan Opera; James Kreger, cellist; Linda Lane, pianist; Gerre Hancock, organist; John Wustman, coach accompanist; Marvin Blickenstaff, pianist, and Edmond Shay, organist.

In addition, recitals have been given by Virginia Hutchings, Edward Eikner, and Garrick Ohlsson, all pianists. The Wesleyan Glee Club presented its Christmas Concert on December 8.

Scheduled for 1975: Jack Bauer, violinist, January 8 at 8; Georgia State University Concert Choir, January 16 at 2; James Kreger, cellist, January 16 at 8; Cornell University Glee Club with Wesleyan Glee Club, January 24 at 8; Linda Lane, pianist, February 3 at 8; Carol Thurman, soprano, February 16 at 3; Yale University Band, March 11 at 8;

Edmund Shay, organist, March 13 at 8; The Florida State Collegians with the Wesleyan Glee Club, April 6 at 3; A Concert of Renaissance and Baroque Music, April 7 at 8; The Atlanta Symphony Orchestra with Edward Eikner as soloist, April 21 at 8; program to be presented in Atlanta April 20.

Norman McLean, of the voice faculty, is chairman of the committee in charge of these events.

Everyone is Invited!

Career Day

Career Day is set for February 13 in the Trice Recreation Room. The Office of Student Affairs, which operates a placement service for alumnae, has invited several companies and school systems to the campus to interview degree students.

"We are interested in how to put a Liberal Arts degree to work", said Joyce Schafer, Dean of Student Affairs. "All Wesleyannes, former and present, are invited to meet with these representatives of business and the teaching profession."

A group of alumnae will also speak to the girls on their own careers; anyone wishing may contribute to this session. On panels October 1 and December 7 local women talked of the success they had achieved in their careers.

Opens Career Center

Dr. Judith Prince (above, with her husband), Director of Counseling at Wesleyan, is also working with a new Career Center on campus. A Career Library, which focuses on non-traditional career opportunities for women and job opportunities for the Liberal Arts graduate, is being developed and is available to alumnae. There are two Princes at Wesleyan; Dr. Bill Prince is Acting Chairman of the Department of Foreign Languages.

More Mature Women Come Back to College

The academic entry/re-entry program, designed for women four or more years out of school, has attracted some fifty students ranging in age from 22 to 60. They commute from the seven-county area around Macon, attending full or part time.

Some are starting college for the first time; some have children. A nursery on campus accommodates pre-school age children four hours a day, and is also open to the public.

"Our Come-Back to Wesleyan Plan is a community service", said Dr. Oscar Page, Academic Dean. "It provides opportunities for the more mature woman to continue her education. These people make very good students."

No testing is required for admission, only a high school diploma or the equivalent, said Dr. Page.

President Speaks

A Christian college is not a church, but a college whose purpose is education, stated President W. Earl Strickland at the opening assembly Sept. 19 in Porter auditorium.

"It is not a dispenser of dogma, but dedicated to all truth", he said. "The Christian college cannot be soft-headed, but must be soft-hearted. Most importantly, it cannot be a bastion of out-dated conduct."

On the positive side he called it a unique institution built on faith in the worth of human value, to the sanctity of life, which enables the learner to become a server of mankind. He reflected on the demise of the once excellent German educational system, which in a few short years became a propaganda machine of the Hitler regime.

"Christianity is at the basis of higher education in the United States", he concluded. "One of its aims must be to exist in sufficient strength and quality to witness to the values of our civilization."

To Use Charge Card

College education by charge card is now available, according to Cameron R. Peden, business manager at Wesleyan, who said that the College has entered into an agreement to honor Master Charge and all other Interbank cards. Charge cards may be used for tuition, board, and in the college bookstore. Wesleyan is the first college in Georgia to use the charge card method of payment, said Neal Weathers, commercial officer of First National Bank and Trust Co., who handled the agreement.

Book from China is Sent to NOW Editor

A beautiful picture-story book, "Monkey Subdues the White-Bone Demon", was received recently from the PRC by NOW editor, Freda K. Nadler, as a gift from Soong Ching Ling (Mme. Sun Yat sen, wife of the first president of the Chinese Republic and graduate of 1913). Autographed by the sender, the story is based on an episode from "The Pilgrimage to the West", a mythological 16th Century novel by Wu Cheng-en. The line drawings on each page are in traditional Chinese style, with characters appearing in operatic costumes. Monkey, the hero, loyal and brave, performs supernatural feats.

Dean Schafer is VP

Mrs. Joyce R. Schafer, dean of Students, has been elected Southern Vice President of Quota International, an organization of executive, professional, and business women. She was Quota governor for Georgia and Alabama last year.

Plum Shows Ceramics

Joel Plum, of the art faculty, had two sculptured ceramic vases at the Georgia Potters International Show at Georgia State U in Atlanta, this fall.

TALK ABOUT 1975 PLANS

Dean Oscar O. Page and Senior Virginia Anne Daniel discuss plans for the Advanced Seminar for Women in Management. (See story on Page 1)
